

Paul Campbell

Topic: Innovation in the new age.

Have you ever wondered where bright ideas come from? Do you ever wish you could develop the genius within you? Join me on a roller coaster ride through some of the innovative moments from history and learn the secrets to releasing the creativity within you.

Paul Campbell oversees training services for Cisco's consumer business in APAC, He has more than 30 years experience in designing, developing and delivering training solutions throughout the telecoms and IT industry.

Prior to joining Cisco, Paul worked in various learning and leadership roles at Nokia and BT (UK). He holds a bachelor's degree in Materials Physics from the Open University in UK, and is a certified assessor for the UK National Vocational Qualifications (NVQ).

His experience spans telecom switching networks; safety courses for external works; retail and channel sales development; technology marketing and customer service.

He is currently VP for the Association of Professional Trainers in Singapore (APTS) and a licensed trainer for Stephen Covey's "7 Habits" and Ron Kauffman's "Up Your Service" programs. When not working or studying, Paul enjoys reading, sailing and jogging